Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 23 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Cold and wintry.

Today:
Wintry showers across northwestern areas extending to parts of central and southeast England later, some settling snow in places. Sunny spells elsewhere, though the odd freezing fog patch may be slow to clear. Cold, with widespread frost early and late.

Tonight:
Wintry showers becoming confined to the northwest. Clear skies for many with a sharp frost and a few freezing fog patches. Rain, sleet and snow reaching southwestern parts later.

Sunday:
Sleet and snow moving northeastwards across parts of England, Wales and perhaps Northern Ireland, accumulations in places. Sunny spells in the north, though further wintry showers for the northwest. Cold.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Fine and cold on Monday. A band of rain, sleet and snow then spreads erratically northeast through Tuesday and into Wednesday. Milder weather follows from the southwest; colder in Scotland.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.